

Restorative inquiries and natural disasters

Michael Eburn<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> ANU College of Law, Australian National University, ACT

‘Can restorative practices offer a way forward to better post event learning?’

The Policies, Institutions and Governance (PIGs) in Natural Disasters project recommended finding a new way to conduct post event inquiries<sup>2</sup>.

A forum was held at Newcastle University on 13 June 2018.

SPEAKERS

Euan Ferguson
Anne Leadbeater
Roger Strickland & Tammy Garrett
Iain Mackenzie
Ivan Pupilidy
John Braithwaite
Professor Jennifer Llewellyn

<sup>2</sup>See <https://www.bnhcrc.com.au/news/blogpost/michael-eburn/2016/learning-lessons-and-about-post-disaster-inquiries>

The findings of the forum will be presented at AFAC 2018 and will contribute to ongoing discussions in the sector about better ways to identify lessons arising from near misses to catastrophic events.