

Training as Research and Research as Training in remote north Australia

Steve Sutton<sup>1</sup>, Bev Sithole<sup>2</sup>, Iolanthe Sutton<sup>3</sup>, David Campbell<sup>4</sup>, Maisie Cameron<sup>2</sup>, Otto Campion<sup>2</sup>, Marshall Campion<sup>2</sup>, Russell Brian<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Charles Darwin University, Darwin NT, <sup>2</sup>ARPNet, Research Institute for Environment and Livelihoods, CDU, Darwin NT, <sup>3</sup>SHIM Consulting, Brompton SA, <sup>4</sup>Incident C4 Management Consulting

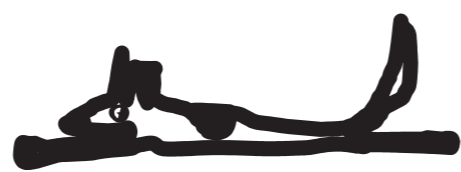

The 'BNH Training for Remote Communities' was initially perceived as training for ranger group members. But as time went by and the participation of Bininj became more embedded, the focus shifted to 'resilience' training for whole communities.

Q3 2014
Project launches with a 'road-trip' asking Bininj what they think about training...

...and Bininj have a very clear idea what they want!

Q2 2015
Major workshop of stakeholders at Ngukurr

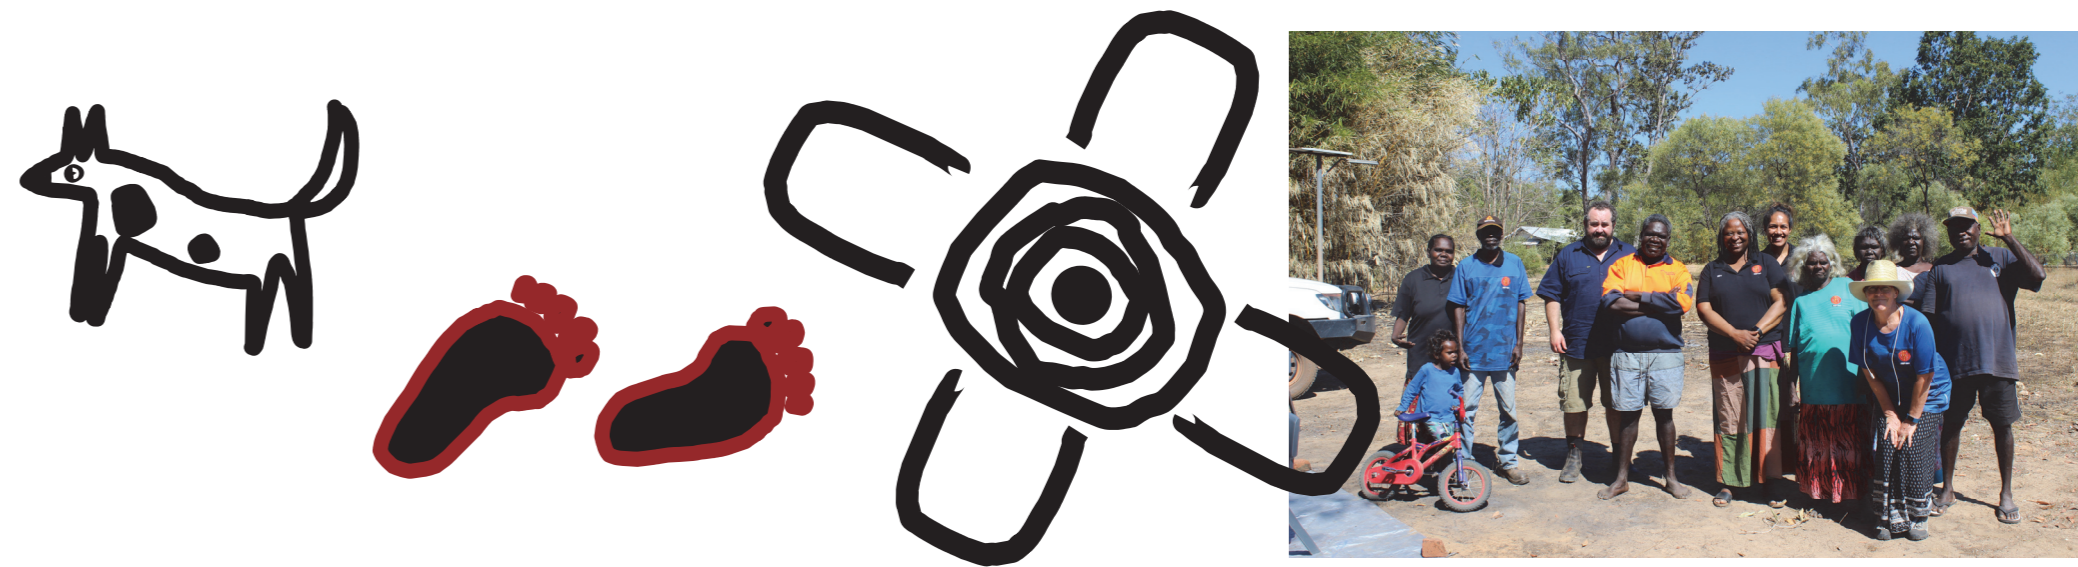

Q2 2017
First training pilot at Malhyangarnak

Q2 2015
The first leadership training workshop asked Bininj about their leadership arrangements.

Q3 2016
A second 'leadership training workshop at Blythe River

Q1 2016
Report on local fire knowledge - to tailor training to local group

XXXVII ≡ X

Q4 2017
Balngarra clan "dashboard" report on BNH management on their estate.

Q2 2018
A second pilot at Buluhkaduru responded to feedback from Bininj at the first pilot.

|| Key Lessons ||

- Every community is different
- Build relationships 1st
- Work with Traditional Owners /Custodians
- TO's should provide 'direction'
- Train on Country
- Tailor training to local settings
- Tailor training to sub-groups
- Train whole community

Gamak!

Legend:

-  Meeting
-  Report
-  Camp Dog